HEALTHY

Healthy Adams County Mission Statement

Healthy Adams County is a collaborative partnership of community members dedicated to continuing assessment, development and promotion of efforts toward improving physical, mental and social well-being.

Healthy Adams County Vision Statement

Healthy Adams County seeks to create a higher quality of life throughout our community by improving physical, mental and social well-being.

Behavioral Health Task Force Mission Statement

The Mission of the Behavioral Health Task Force of Adams County is to encourage an environment which promotes the improvement of mental and behavioral health and quality of life through a community led process.

Goals:

- To act as a regular forum of collaborative partners to address this task force Mission.
- To improve access to mental and behavioral health services across Adams County.
- To educate and inform the community and its various stakeholders regarding mental and behavioral health issues and trends.
- To act as advocates for citizens affected by mental and behavioral health challenges.

On the Road to Living Well: Taking Charge

Finding a Mental Health Specialist

- Ask your primary care provider to help you make your first appointment to avoid long wait times.
- Check the details of your mental health insurance coverage
- If the first mental health specialist isn't a good fit, look elsewhere for someone you connect with.

Don't forget! Tips for managing your mental health while you wait for an appointment.

- Surround yourself with family and friends.
- Talk to a counselor, social worker, nurse or trusted adult
- Continue doing what you love: reading, writing, nature walks, creating art...

Making your First Appointment Count:

- Come prepared to talk about what you're experiencing and how you're feeling.
- You may be asked to fill out a questionnaire describing your mental health experience.
- Be upfront and specific about what you want addressed to help you feel better.
- Ask the mental health specialist to explain treatment options to you until you understand. Write down the plan so you know what you are supposed to do.

Navigating your insurance

- Involve someone with experience to help you.
- Call your insurance company to ask what mental health benefits are covered. (Number is on the back of your card)
- To find a provider, go to the insurer's website or call the number on the back of your card.

Making Sure Your Treatment Plan Works for You:

- Keep a wellness log and monitor your progress
- Follow up and don't be afraid to ask about changes to your treatment plan if things aren't going well.
- Most therapies and medications take time to work, so stick with it and results will come.
- Your treatment plan may change. Be active in this process.

On the Road to Living Well: Taking Charge (continued)

Questions You May Want to Ask:

- I'm concerned about the way I feel. What is your plan for helping me feel better?
- Are there any safety concerns that I should know about with my condition or treatment plan?
- Do I have to take medication? What does it help with? What are the side effects?
- How will I know I'm getting better in a few days, weeks or months?
- How long will it take for me to feel better?

Living Well:

- Recognize that you have control over living well.
- Find a routine that works for you that includes a healthy diet, exercise and regular sleep patterns.
- Stay close to your support network. Engage family, friends, teammates and your faith community.
- Be realistic and mindful of your needs and take that into consideration in making life decisions.

Getting Through It

- Stay away from drugs and alcohol. Peer pressure can make this hard, so find strategies to make it work, like carrying a cup at parties so people don't ask if you need a drink.
- If you use alcohol or drugs, be honest and tell your doctor because it will likely affect your treatment plan.
- Do your best to stay positive. Surround yourself with positive messages, people and activities. This can rub off and help to improve the way you feel.

Behavioral Health Glossary of Common Terms

Behavior

Actions or reactions that a person has that can be observed. Some behaviors are thought to be unobservable; these would be a person's thoughts and emotions.

Behavioral Health

Health or wellness associated with someone's behaviors that are both observable and unobservable. This term is often interchanged with the term mental health.

Behavior Problems

Difficulties or problems caused by someone's behaviors.

Behavior Therapy

A form of therapy that is focused on changing behaviors from those that are not helpful or healthy to those that are more effective and healthy. A number of techniques may be used that are often referred to as "learning new behaviors".

Client Centered Therapy

Sometimes referred to as Person Centered Care, Client Centered therapy is a form of talk therapy where the client sets the pace and the therapist responds to the client's concerns with a variety of techniques that assist the client to feel heard and cared for.

Cognitive Behavioral Therapy

Often referred to as CBT, cognitive behavioral therapy is a combination of behavioral and cognitive therapy techniques. Both negative or distorted thought patterns and ineffective behaviors become the targets of change in therapy. The goal is to replace thoughts and behaviors that have led to problems with healthier thoughts and behaviors.

Counselor

A counselor is an individual who is trained to provide psychotherapy in individual, group, or couples sessions, depending upon the training of the counselor. A counselor may be trained in a variety of counseling approaches, including cognitive therapy, client centered therapy, or drug and alcohol counseling. Drug and alcohol counselors are certified by the state and will have the letters CAC (Certified Addictions Counselor) after their name. In Pennsylvania, counselors are licensed by the state. When a counselor is licensed, they may use the letters LPC (Licensed Professional Counselor) after their name.

Credentialed

Credentialed is the term applied by insurance companies that have agreed to pay for the services of professional mental health providers. Professionals (counselors, psychologists, social workers) who are licensed by the state can apply for credentialing by insurance companies.

Crisis Intervention

When a person is in an acute mental health crisis, such as feeling suicidal or homicidal, they may call Crisis Intervention to seek immediate help. Crisis workers are trained to assess clients for suicidal intent and other severe mental health problems. Crisis workers are available 24 hours a day at hospital emergency departments. Crisis workers are most often the providers who arrange for the hospitalization of clients who are in need of inpatient care.

Drug and Alcohol Counseling

Drug and alcohol or addiction counseling is the group or individual services available with some agencies for clients who are working to recover from drug or alcohol abuse and dependence. This counseling is very educational in nature.

Inpatient Care

Inpatient care is referred to as “the highest level of care”. Clients are in a hospital setting when in inpatient. Sometimes inpatient programs are located on the floor of a general hospital or the program may be located at a facility that is only for mental health care. Where once inpatient care could be for weeks or months, it is now generally used for the most acute situations and clients are hospitalized for a few days to a couple of weeks.

Inpatient care for addictions often involves a period of detoxification from the addictive substance, commonly referred to as simply “detox”. This is followed by a period of inpatient care referred to as rehabilitation or “rehab”.

Intensive Out- Patient Care

Intensive Out-Patient (IOP) care is a medium level of care. Clients are not in the hospital, but are staying at home for these programs. They will attend group sessions multiple times per week for a period of weeks. Each group may have a different therapeutic focus such as cognitive therapy, psychoeducation, personal emotional self-care, or addiction.

Mental Health

Mental health is a term that is interchangeable with the term Behavioral Health. It is a state of emotional well-being in which an individual is able to use his or her thinking and feeling abilities, live with others, and meet the ordinary demands of everyday life.

Mental Illness

A state where a person’s thinking, emotions or behaviors are disrupted to an extent that it has an effect on their ability to function in daily life. It does not necessarily mean that the person has a diagnosable psychiatric disorder or needs any form of medical treatment.

National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI)

This non-profit national organization provides a wide variety of free resources related to mental health and wellness and treatment options. This information can be accessed at the website: www.nami.org.

Partial Hospital Program

Partial Hospitalization Programs are day treatment programs where individuals experience programming similar to that found in a hospital setting, but they can return to the comfort of their own home at night. They will attend group sessions daily for a period of weeks. Each group may have a different therapeutic focus such as cognitive therapy, psychoeducation, and personal emotional self-care.

Psychiatrist

Psychiatry is a branch of medicine dealing with the science and practice of treating mental or behavioral disorders. Psychiatrists are the medical specialists who evaluate psychiatric concerns and prescribe medicines, which can play an important role in treating mental health problems.

Psychologist

A psychologist is a professional who evaluates and studies behavior and mental processes. Typically, psychologists must have completed a university degree in psychology, and a doctorate degree to be licensed by the state of Pennsylvania. They are trained therapists who provide treatments such as CBT, group therapy, or family therapy. They cannot prescribe medications.

Psychotherapy

Psychotherapy is a term that is interchangeable with the term “counseling”. It can be any of a variety of therapeutic approaches such as CBT, client centered, or even art therapy and play therapy.

Recovery

Some mental health conditions may not be curable, but a person can experience a sense of control, meaning, and purpose in his or her life. Recovery is thought of as a process that leads to living a life of meaning and purpose.

Social Worker

Social work is a profession that helps improve people's lives in a wide variety of ways. In the mental health field, social workers assist people by helping them cope with issues in their everyday lives, deal with their relationships, and solve personal and family problems. They utilize many of the same therapeutic approaches that counselors and psychologists use.

Therapy

The terms “therapy”, “counseling”, and “psychotherapy” are fairly interchangeable. The training of the professional (counselor, psychologist, or social worker) will determine the term that will be used.

INFORMATION ABOUT PENNSYLVANIA COUNSELING SERVICES

Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services (BHRS)

Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services more commonly known as Wrap Around Services, are for children who need individual therapeutic assistance. A skilled staff person works with the child for a specified number of hours per week in his/her home, school, and/or community.

Behavioral Specialist Consultants (BSC) Mobile Therapists (MT) and Therapeutic Staff Supports (TSS) work together to provide the following services:

- Formulation and implementation of behavioral treatment plans
- Collaboration with and transfer of skills to parents, school staff, and other care givers
- Specialized treatments targeting symptoms of various childhood mental health disorders such as Attention Deficit Hyper-Activity Disorder, Oppositional Defiant Disorder, and Anxiety Disorders
- Specialized Autism treatment

Family Based Services

Similar to BHRS, Family Based Services are provided in the home and community. However, Family Based is more intensive, with a typical authorization period lasting eight months. Also, Family Based therapists are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week to aid in crisis intervention and behavioral stabilization. Furthermore, Family Based Services focus on the entire family, not just an identified child.

Services are geared toward children and adolescents up to age 21 who are at risk of out of home placement due to a severe emotional and/or behavioral disorder or severe mental illness. Family Based teams assist families by coordinating resources for successful solutions as well as management of presenting treatment issues.

Main goals of Family Based Services:

- Reduce out-of-home placement of children
- Strengthen and maintain family unit
- Increase life skills and coping capacities of each family member
- Re-unify families previously separated due to the mental illness of a child

Outpatient Services

PCS Outpatient services are intended for individuals who possess the skills and supports necessary to recover without a more intensive treatment program such as hospitalization or residential support. Outpatient services can also be supportive following discharge from more intensive forms of care. Therapists assess a client's mental health and drug & alcohol treatment needs while psychiatrists, as licensed medical doctors, evaluate a client's need for medication. When applicable, psychiatrists will prescribe and monitor medications.

PCS Outpatient Services assist individuals and families in the following ways:

- Services focus on a full range of emotional and behavioral issues and are available for children and adults of all ages.
- Through a collaborative process between client and therapist, the specific needs of each client are carefully considered and treatment goals are identified
- Therapists focus on the gifts/strengths of each client
- Treatment interventions often target difficulties related to anxiety, depression, socialization, confidence and self-esteem
- Ongoing therapeutic interventions support and guide the client in him/her daily life
- Both individual and family sessions are available

Risk Factors and Warning Signs of Suicide: What to Look For

Suicide most often occurs when someone's stressors exceed their current coping abilities. However, the factors and causes are not always the same for everyone. The following are factors that are commonly seen in people who are contemplating suicide.

National Suicide Prevention Hotline: 988 – Available 24 hours, everyday

If a person talks about:

- Being a burden to others
- Feeling trapped
- Unbearable pain
- No reason to live
- Harming themselves or others
- Getting their affairs in order (making a will)

If a person displays these behaviors:

- Increased drug or alcohol use
- Acting recklessly
- Withdrawing from activities
- Isolating from friends and family
- Sleeping too much
- Not sleeping at all

If a person displays these emotions:

- Depression
- Loss of interest
- Rage
- Irritability
- Humiliation
- Aggression
- Anxiety
- Anger

If a person has any of these health factors:

- Depression
- Bipolar disorder
- Schizophrenia
- Anxiety disorders
- Psychotic disorders
- Substance abuse disorders
- Chronic health conditions

If a person is subject to these environmental factors:

- Stressful life event (job loss, death, divorce)
- Prolonged stressor (harassment, bullying, relationship issues, unemployment)
- Access to drugs, alcohol, or firearms

If a person has any of these past factors:

- Previous suicide attempts
- Family history of suicide
- Family history of depression
- Death of loved ones

Suicide Prevention: Talking to a Suicidal Person

How to start a conversation:

- “I have been concerned about you lately”
- “Recently, I have noticed some differences in you and I was wondering how you are doing”
- “You haven’t seemed yourself lately and I wanted to check in with you”

Questions to ask:

- “When did you start feeling this way?”
- “Did something happen to start making you feel this way?”
- “What can I do to best support you?”
- “Have you considered getting professional help?”

What you can say:

- “You are not alone in this, I will be here for you”
- “You may not believe it now, but the way that you’re feeling will change”
- “I may not understand exactly how you feel, but I care about you and want to help”
- “You are a strong person and I am here for you”

DO:

- Be yourself – let the person know that you genuinely care about them.
- Listen – let the person unload their feelings. No matter how negative the conversation seems, the fact that it is happening is a positive sign.
- Be sympathetic – don’t be judgmental, be calm, be patient, and be accepting. Allow them to talk about their feelings freely.
- Offer hope – reassure them that help is available, that their feelings are only temporary, and that their life is important to you.
- Take the person seriously – do not underestimate or invalidate what they are saying. Ask questions, you are not putting ideas in their head or making the situation worse. This shows that you are listening and taking them seriously and allowing them to share with you.

DON’T:

- Use clichés – avoid common sayings like, “you have so much to live for,” “suicide will hurt your friends and family,” “look on the bright side,” or “this is all happening for a reason.”
- Be shocked – don’t lecture on the value of life or say that suicide is wrong.
- Promise confidentiality – Do not swear yourself to secrecy. You may need to speak to a mental health professional in order to keep the person safe if they are not yet willing to do so themselves.
- Minimize their problems – it is not about how bad their situation is, it is about how badly it is hurting the person.
- Blame yourself – it is not your fault and you cannot fix someone else’s depression, but you can offer care and support.

MENTAL HEALTH

Adams County, PA

SIGNS OF POOR MENTAL HEALTH:

It is important to note that feeling one or two of the following does not mean you or a loved one is experiencing depression. It is always better to talk to a professional and encourage positive discussion about depression. The intensity, frequency and number of symptoms/emotions all play an essential role in poor mental health.

Little or no pleasure in doing things

Feeling down, depressed or hopeless

Trouble falling asleep, staying asleep, or sleeping too much

Feeling bad about yourself -- or that you are a failure or have let yourself or your family down

Moving or speaking so slowly that other people could have noticed. Or the opposite - being so fidgety or restless that you have been moving around a lot more than usual

Feeling tired or having little energy

Thoughts that you would be better off dead, or of hurting yourself

Trouble concentrating on things, such as reading the newspaper or watching television

Poor appetite or overeating
